

Dr. Rimaletta Ray uncovers an informative guide for English speakers

This book views self-growth through the prism of language intelligence perfection

STAMFORD, Conn. – According to Dr. Rimaletta Ray, each language constitutes a certain model of the universe, a semiotic system of understanding of the world, and English makes this understanding universal now. However, the present day state of any language learning is being done in the dark, without any understanding of how language is being processed in the brain and without applying the latest developments in neuroscience and psycholinguists. In her publication, “Language Intelligence or Universal English,” she teaches English speakers to manage their language in the most beneficial way.

This self-help language therapy book addresses the necessity to develop new language intelligence. It rationalizes the English language knowledge in the brain on the basis of the Method of the Right Language Behavior, the beneficial use of which is presented on both theoretical - Book One (Remedial Course of Linguistic Apprenticeship) and practical levels - Book Two (Remedy Your Language Habits) and Book Three (Remedy Your Speech Skill). These three books are connected with one method and the concept of a new paradigm of language learning/speaking, based on a solid language awareness and conscious, controlled language use.

It is the author’s goal to provide a very operative and comprehensive “remedies” for putting the incorrect language habits and speech skills into a cohesive unit for a healthy English mentality to be formed in the brain of the language users. This book presents very well sorted out information and organize it into the chunks that serve as the shot-cuts in the brain, putting the disconnected, messy language knowledge into solid English language awareness.

Insightful and a truly valuable read, “Language Intelligence or Universal English” inspires readers to realize the necessity of viewing any language as the means for heightening one’s consciousness, as well as seeking and creating breakthrough opportunities for developing new technology-oriented language intelligence. This will help them build a new and more advanced emotional, professional, cultural and social intelligences that their digital times make a priority.
